1

L.C.

THE

AMERICAN

CATHOLIC QUARTERLY

REVIEW.

Bonum est homini ut eum veritas vincat volentem, quia malum est homini ut eum veritas vincat invitum. Nam ipsa vincat necesse est, sive negantum sive confitentum.

S. AUG. EPIST. CCXXXVIII. AD PASCENT.

VOLUME IV.

44

FROM JANUARY TO OCTOBER, 1879.

PHILADELPHIA:

HARDY & MAHONY,

PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS,

505 CHESTNUT STREET.

AP2
.A332

THE LIBRARY
OF CONGRESS
WASHINGTON

COPYRIGHT, 1879,

BY

HARDY & MAHONY.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

PAGE

THEORIES OF EDUCATION AND LIFE.—THOMAS CARLYLE. By Rt. Rev. J. L. Spalding, D.D., ... 1

The aim and end of education, 1; Different persons differently affected by wrong-doing, 2; Examples drawn from education among different nations, 3; The Knight and the Monk in the Middle Ages, 5; Education the effort to create the ideal man, 6; The two ways of viewing human life, 7; Philosophy on the unchristian basis, 8; Carlyle's Pantheism, 10; Scientific Atheism 12; Carlyle on Man's spiritual nature, 14; The results of Atheism as expressed by Mr. Carlyle, 15; His contempt for those who are called religious, 16; The service he might have rendered the Church, 17; The doctrine of hero worship, 17; What does he mean by the love of God? 19; Mr. Carlyle not an original thinker, 20; "Unhappy men who do not love," 21.

CEDMON: HIS GENIUS AND INFLUENCE. By Brother Azarias, ... 22

Morley's "Early English Writers," 22; Bishop Aidann and the Abbess Hilda, 24; Cedmon's life buried in obscurity, 25; First effusions of the great poet, 26; The first to wed the Anglo-Saxon tongue to immortal verse, 29; He reaches the pinnacle of fame, 30; Sublime and pure loftiness of his thoughts, 31; The secret of his success, 32; The holiness of his life added weight to his words, 33; Cedmon's spirit as embodied in his poetry, 35; Examples from his great work, 35 et seq.; Not to be judged by modern standards of criticism, 41; The poetry of Cedmon a revelation to the people, 43; Popularity of Cedmon's poems, 44; Their effect upon the whole Teutonic race, 45; Later developments of his writings, 46.

THE HUMAN SOUL AND BODY. By Rev. Walter Hill, S. J., ... 48

The human soul and human knowledge, 48; How we obtain a knowledge of the mind, 50; Evil results of the desire for novelty, 50; What theory best serves to explain man's nature, 52; The properties of matter and their scope, 54; How far science and philosophy go in these matters, 55; Impossibility of extension in matter, 56; How to account for the different species of matter, 58; Some new theories and their difficulties, 58; The theory of extension and of sensible qualities in matter, 61; The philosophy of Euler, Locke, and Descartes, 62; The theory of pre-established harmony, 63; Illustration of and a common objection to these theories, 64; The theory most consistent with reason, 65.

THE PRESENT INDUSTRIAL CONDITION OF IRELAND. By Rev. Thomas Quigley, ... 67

Sullivan and Spenser on Ireland, 67; Ireland under the Penal Laws, 68; Situation, climate, soil and population of the country, 69; Statistics taken from Thom's Directory, 70; Banking in Ireland, 71; Live stock and crops, 72; Commerce and manufactures, 73; Causes of Ireland's backwardness, 74; The land questions, 75; The principle of Feudalism, 76; How it has worked in Ireland, 77; Comparative Census, 78; Who own the land, 79; What Ireland might be under favorable conditions, 80.

AN AUTUMN IN THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS. By Gen. John Gibbon, U. S. A., 81

Lewis and Clark's expedition, 81; Following the trail, 82; Shishequaw and Fort Mountains, 83; Discovery of a new pass, 84; The Helena Hot Springs, 85; Climbing the Mountains, 86; What was seen there, 87; A hotel in the mountains, 88; Warm Spring Creek, 89; Appearance of this place, 91; A truly beautiful scene, 92; True Western hospitality, 93; A fowling journey, 94; Journeying in the snow, 96; Contrast of the scenery on either side of the Rocky Mountains, 98; The Bench Lands of the Western Slope, 99; Concluding remarks, 100.

WAS SHAKESPEARE A CATHOLIC? By S. B. A. Harper, ... 101

Peculiar interest inherent in this subject, 101; Condition of England when Shakespeare was born, 102; Queen Elizabeth's relations to Protestantism, 103; Dearth of contemporary evidence regarding Shakespeare's religion, 104; Strong presumptions, 105; Only twice in his writings does he attack Rome, 106; Weakness of these evidences, 108; "Henry VIII," 109; Quotations, 110; Character of Wolsey, 112; Shakespeare does not paint him with an un-Catholic hand, 113; The poet's picture of Queen Katharine, 114; The whole temper and spirit of Shakespeare eminently conservative, 114; Proofs from his other plays, 115; Why it is reasonable to believe that Shakespeare was a Catholic, 116; He was certainly not a Puritan, 117; His pictures of the regular clergy, 118; His familiarity with the customs and phraseology of the Church, 120; Conclusion, 121.

PAGE

How Heresy deals with the Bible. By Very Rev. James A. Corcoran, D.D., ... 123

Protestant boasting about the growth of Bible knowledge, 123; Biblical knowledge developing into subtle doubt, 124; How Catholics look upon the Bible, 125; What the heretics during the early age of the Church thought of the Bible, 126; Prompted by expediency rather than by honest belief, 129; Falsifying God's revealed Word, 130; False interpretations, 131; Heretics have no respect for the Scriptures, 132; Luther's Canon of Scriptures, 133; The work begun by Luther ardently carried out by his followers, 136; Untruthful translations of the Bible, 137.

The Catholic Church in the United States in the Recent Translation of Alzog. By John Gilmary Shea, LL.D., ... 138

The American supplement to Alzog's work; O'Kane Murray as an authority; The Fable of Friar Juan Xuarez, 138; The work equally misleading for the French as for the Spanish portion of our present country, 139; Position of Catholics in the English Colonies, 140; The See of New Orleans, 140; Who was Father Charles Carroll? 141; Minor errors, 142.

Catholicity and Protestantism in Relation to our Future as a People. By George D. Wolff, ... 143

The once bright prospects of a glorious future, 143; The late decided change of feeling, 144; The conservative power supposed to reside in the American people, 145; Intelligence alone no safeguard against corruption, 146; The place of religion in our polity, 147; Grounds for questioning the ability of Protestantism to supply the religious want, 148; The question of personal integrity and honesty, 150; Inability of Protestantism to reconcile existing antagonisms, 151; Protestantism not to be relied upon as a corrective of disregard for law, 152; The influence of Catholicity, 154; By what strong bonds Catholic society is held together, 155; How the doctrines of the Church promote the practice of virtue, 156; The Church and the poor, 160; Protestantism checked the law of Universal charity, 162; Reverence for the majesty and divine authority of law—Conclusion, 163.

Correspondence—Missionary Rectors. By Rev. F. Porphyrius, . . . 164

The Outlook, Political and Social, in Europe. By A. de G., . . 193

Europe in 1878, 193; A great crisis, 194; Intellectual hunger of the age, 195; The theory of evolution, 197; The wonderful facilities for propagating knowledge in our time, 198; A creed that intoxicates, 199; Poverty not a cause of evil, 200; Socialism and the governments of Europe, 201; Church and State, 202; Condition of mankind in pre-Christian times, 203; Society and the Reformation, 204; Civil marriage, 205; Education in our day, 206; The condition to which the Falk laws have reduced Germany, 207; Condition of affairs in France, Italy, Austria, and other countries, 208; The State to blame for the evils which threaten it, 209; Religion the only remedy for the existing state of affairs, 210; On what depends the future, 211.

Catholic Societies. By Rt. Rev. Francis S. Chatard, D.D., ... 212

What is meant by Catholic Societies, 212; How our societies should be constituted, 213; Origin of Confraternities, 214; The mutual aid societies of the present day, 215; Our societies should be organized on the basis of religion, 216; The dangers that threaten our societies, 217; First duty of a Catholic society, 218; Catholic societies and the labor question, 219; Closing remarks, 221.

The Relation of the Popes to Literature prior to the Eleventh Century. By Rev. H. A. Brann, D.D., ... 222

The Popes have always been the patrons of theology, 222; But literature is the object of this article, 223; The Church and the drama, 224; Literature among the early Christians, 225; The Popes encouraged learning then as now, 227; Difficulties during the era of persecution, 228; First establishment of parochial and other schools, 230; Christian writers of the fourth and fifth centuries, 231; Literary culture of the Romans in the sixth and seventh centuries, 232; Gregory the Great, 233; The lights of the eighth and ninth centuries, 235; The partial eclipse of the tenth, 236; Two great names—Gerbert and Hildebrand, 237; Great works of the Papacy, 238; Hallam on the Popes of this period, 239.

The Rapid Increase of the Dangerous Classes in the United States. By John Gilmary Shea, LL. D., ... 240

Lowering of moral tone and growth of pauperism, 240; Impossibility of effecting moral reformation by merely natural means, 241; Effects of a general religious decline in America, 242; Abuse of education, 243; Other causes of decline and crime, 244; Abuses in religion, 245; Contrast between the Church and the Sects, 247; Protestantism has lost its hold on the masses, 248; How this result tends to foster crime, 249; Moral condition of the foreign element, 250; What has been and is its bane, 251; German and Italian emigrants, 251; The Chinese question in California, 253; The prevailing evils of New York City, 254; Difficulty of reforming homeless children, 255; The war a cause of increase in crime, 256; Proselytism one of the greatest curses of the American social system, 258; The Catholic Church and the poor, 260; The line of action for Catholics to follow, 261; What the Church has done and is doing for the people, 262; Catholic institutions meet the wants of the times, 265; The colonization movement, 266; A great Catholic university needed, 267.

PAGE

ADMISSIONS OF OUR ADVERSARIES. By Rt. Rev. Thomas A. Becker, D.D., 268

Scope and character of this essay, 268; Those who know the truth and those who do not, 270; The doctrines of infallibility and transubstantiation, 271; Admissions in points of doctrine, 272; The lack of unity and infallible authority among the sects, 274; Protestants and the mystery of Redemption, 276; Prayers for the dead, 277; An unwilling compliment to the Church, 278; Matters of practice among Catholics, 279; Daily service in the Catholic churches, 280; Permanence and dignity of charitable institutions in the Church, 283; The work accomplished by Religious Orders, 285; Value of the attendance of a priest at the death-bed, 285; Catholic patriotism and loyalty, 287.

THE FALL AND RISE OF EDUCATION IN IRELAND. By Rev. Thomas Quigley, ... 288

The Church not to be blamed for the backwardness of education anywhere, 288; Condition of Ireland when the Roman empire was broken up, 290; The Danish and Norman invasions of Ireland, 291; Why no great University was established in Ireland, 292; What the Reformation did with the old Irish colleges, 293; Ireland in the seventeenth century, 294; Adoption of extraordinary means to destroy "Popery" in Ireland, 295; Irish colleges on the continent, 297; The Charter Schools of 1793, 298; Bishop Doyle, 299; Lord Stanley's Primary Education Bill, 300; Statistics and workings of the National Schools, 301; Catholic colleges for intermediate education, 302; The Queen's Colleges and the Catholic University, 303; Benefits of a Catholic University not properly appreciated, 304.

STEPS TO ATHEISM. By Rev. Joseph Shea, S. J., ... 305

Atheism a gradual growth, 305; Commission of and perseverance in sin a step towards Atheism, 306; Certain kinds of sin that more especially foster this horrible vice, 307; Intellectual pride, 308; The politicians furnish the next step to Atheism, 310; Impatience under trials, 311; Irreverence and contempt of holy things, 312; The Church and the money question, 313; Heresy a high road to Atheism, 314; Erroneous views in the field of philosophy, 314; Denial of the soul's immortality, 315; Believing what we please, 315; Summary of what has been said, 316.

THE PURSUIT OF "JOSEPH." By Gen. John Gibbon, U. S. A., ... 317

Outbreak of the Nez Percés war, 317; Concentration of United States troops, 318; Following the trail, 319; News of the Nez Percés, 321; An interesting march, 322; A messenger sent to a Flathead chief, 323; The march continued, 324; Important information, 325; The Indians and the United States authorities, 326; Continuing the journey, 327; An interesting point of the trail, 328; Crossing a formidable ridge, 329; Sure traces of the natives, 331; Coming up with the enemy, 333; The silent approach, 334; Commencing the fight, 336; Necessity of tact, 337; The battle becomes hot, 338; The Indians resort to a stratagem, 339; A messenger dispatched to Deer Lodge, 340; Arrival of General Howard, 341; Particulars of the battle of Big Hole, 342; Scenes after the battle, 343; Returning to Deer Lodge, 344.

VERNACULAR VERSIONS OF THE BIBLE, OLD AND NEW. By Very Rev. James A. Corcoran, D.D., ... 344

Those who lay violent hands upon God's Word, 344; Object of the Ebionites in translating the Scriptures, 345; Their Anglican Apologist, 346; Authorized translations in the early ages, 347; Why translations were not abundant in the Middle Ages, 348; Zealous biblical scholars of those times, 350; Number of vernacular versions then produced, 352; What has become of them, 353; The destruction of books the work of ruffians, 355; Mistranslation of the Bible never known in the Christian Church, 356; Luther, the founder of the Modern school of mistranslation, 357; His perversions of texts, 358 et seq.; The Christian world indignant at his scriptural work, 364; Luther justifying his own conduct, 367; More specimens of the Reformer's style, 368; Character of the English Protestant translations, 369.

RELIGION AND CULTURE. By Rt. Rev. J. L. Spalding, D.D., ... 389

Our good qualities are acquired, 389; Meaning of the word culture, 390; Abuses of education, 391; The sphere of culture, 392; Puritan character pervading our literature, 393; The preparations for a higher culture have been made by Americans, 394; The new paganism called culture, 396; All heroic conduct springs from the confidence which comes of faith, 397; Various views on the subject, 398; What men of culture can do for the world, 399; The subject considered apart from the aspect of religious faith and morality, 401; Culture akin to poetry, life mostly prose, 402; Relation of the Catholic Church to culture, 404; Mr. Arnold's culturism not original, 406; One may be a lover of culture and a Christian at the same time, 409; Self-constituted apostles of culture, 412; What Catholics can do and should do for culture, 413.

THE PRESENT POLITICAL CONDITION OF IRELAND. By Rev. Thomas Quigley, ... 415

Last years of the Irish Parliament, 415; The Act of Union and the rise of O'Connell, 416; By whom O'Connell was supported, 417; Effects of Emancipation, 418; His Repeal movement, 419; The Young Ireland party, 420; The principle of resistance to established power, 421; Who were the Young Ireland leaders, 422; Origin of the Fenian Society, 423; Its rise and decline, 424; Ireland and the Papacy, 425; Home Rule and its fundamental principles, 426; A general outline of the movement, 428; How Home Rule may be obtained, 429; The hope of Ireland rests in its rising generation, 430.

PAGE

SOCIALISM CONSIDERED IN ITS ORIGIN AND FIRST MANIFESTATIONS. By Rev. Aug. J. Thébaud, S. J., ... 431

Recent ominous expansion of socialism, 431; The social system intimately connected with politics, 433; The various stages through which human society has passed, 433; Change effected by Christianity, 434; Socialism totally unknown before the French Revolution, 436; What the world now means by liberty and freedom, 437; The principle of equality, 438; Those who adopted the principles of the Revolution, 439; What they meant by fraternity, 440; The Revolutionists' hatred of religion, 440; Babeuf's social code, 441; The hold they took on the world, 443; There is a social science which has not broken loose from Christianity, 444; The new outbreak fatally opportune, 445; Saint-Simonism, 447; Fourier's system, 448; It has passed away, 451; Socialism in the United States, 452; Condition of affairs in Europe in the Middle Ages, 453; Why the difference of condition between ancient and modern times, 454; A remedy proposed for modern evils, 455.

A REVIEW OF THE RISE AND PROGRESS OF ENGLISH LITERATURE. By M. M., ... 456

The writer's reason for choosing a ground often trodden before, 456; Effects of the dispersion of the human race and of climate upon the mind, 457; The ancient Britons and the Roman invasion, 458; Change effected by the Saxons, 459; Their conversion and first acquaintance with letters, 460; King Alfred and the foundation of the Universities of Cambridge and Oxford, 461; The Norman Conquest, 462; Who cultivated literature in the Middle Ages, 464; The transition state of England, 465; The period of foundation of the great universities, 466; Amalgamation of the Norman and Saxon races, 467; The Father of English literature, 468; Birth of Scottish poetry, 470; The war of the Roses and what followed, 471; Beginning of the modern history of England, 471; Sir Thomas More, 472; Critical cultivation of the language begun, 474; The Elizabethan era, 475; Shakespeare, 477; Writers of the seventeenth century, 478; Milton and his contemporaries, 480; Dryden, 481; Pope and others, 482; The writers of the eighteenth century, 483; The second golden age of English literature, 485; A retrospective review of what has been said, 487; Contemporary writers, 488.

ENGLISH DEVOTION TO OUR BLESSED LADY IN THE OLDEN TIME. By Rev. H. J. Coleridge, S. J., ... 490

Example set to America by Old England, 490; What remains of the England of the Ages of Faith, 491; Mr. Waterton's devotion and researches, 492; The Religious Orders of the Middle Ages, 493; The manner in which this devotion manifested itself, 495; Shrines and devotions, 496; Pilgrimages, 498; Devotion to the Blessed Virgin at Oxford, 500; The old prayers and forms of devotion to our Blessed Lady, 501; Old hymns in her honor, 503; Concluding remarks, 505.

NEWSPAPERS AND NOVELS. By A. de G., ... 506

A false conclusion often drawn, 506; Intellectual activity of the present day combined with lassitude of thought, 507; The theory that "knowledge is power" exemplified in the newspaper press, 508; Carelessness in selecting what to read, 509; Different kinds of newspapers, 510; Causes of the circulation of cheap and bad newspapers, 512; Has the press done more evil than good? 513; Novels and who read them, 513; Novels viewed from different points, 515; Who and what is the average novelist, 516; The same rules applied to newspaper men, 517; Conclusions drawn from the foregoing considerations, 518.

BEZA AS A TRANSLATOR; HIS PERVERSIONS OF THE WORD OF GOD. By Very Rev. James A. Corcoran, D.D., ... 521

Luther's many imitators in the treatment of the Scriptures, 521; Theodore Beza one of the principal among them, 522; His private character, 523; His life as free as his verses, 524; How his young manhood was spent at Paris, 526; Flight to Geneva, 527; What has made his fame, 528; How the sense of the Bible may be explained or distorted, 529; Some specimens of his deliberate falsifications of the Bible, 530; The "Reformer's" idea of individual merit and free will, 531; Calvin's doctrines, 532; Teaching of the Catholic Church on these points, 534; The difficulties with which Beza met, 535; How he overcame some of them, 536; The doctrines of Redemption, 539; Some of his purposes, 541; The outside motive of Beza's doctrines, 543; His idea of justice, 545; No end to his willful perversions, 546; Why Catholics reverence divine tradition, 548.

THE LOGIC OF EVOLUTION. By Rev. Edward F. X. McSweeny, D.D., . . 551

"Laique" on Evolution, 551; The existence of God a fact, not an assumption, 552; Darwin's theory on the community of descent, 553; Transmission of certain traits, 553; Improvement in grade and the struggle for existence, 554; His reason for alleging a common origin for all animals, 555; Their adaptation to diversified conditions, 556; How man and the other animals are developed, 557; Dr. Draper on Evolution, 559; Sexual selection and the improvement of breeds, 560; To what Darwin's theory naturally leads, 561.

THE CANADIAN ELEMENT IN THE UNITED STATES. By John Gilmary Shea, LL.D., ... 581

Champlain and the Jesuit missionaries, 581; First explorers and the traces they have left, 582; Canadian settlers on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, 583; The primitive Canadian population has not become extinct, 584; This element during the war of Independence, 585; Settlements made after the war, 586; What has been done for the history of this element, 586; How the Canadians distinguished themselves, 587; Extracts from a new history, 588; How the volume opens, 589; Canadians rising to public places, 590; Milwaukee and its founder, 591; Dubuque and Peoria's discovery,

PAGE

592; The founder of Davenport, 593; Detroit, 593; Rainville and Provençal, 594; Fairbault and the Northwest Company, 595; Settlements in Minnesota and Dakota, 596; Mallet, Ménard, Bourbonnais, and others, 597; The late Senator Bogy, 598; French names in the Southwest, 599; Settlement of Oregon and Washington Territory, 600; Character of Canadian emigration to the United States, 601; What the Canadians have done and are doing for the religious, moral, and material progress of our country, 602; Canadian blood runs through the whole community, 603; What Catholic Canada is still doing, 604.

MODERN AND ANCIENT PHILOSOPHY COMPARED. By Rev. J. Ming, S. J., 605

Return of Catholic Philosophy to the scholastic system, 605; In what Modern Philosophy consists and results, 606; Idealists and their forerunners, 607; The steps made by Kant, 608; His conclusions, 610; Fichte and his school, 613; In what his theory consists, 614; Development of his system, 615; Schelling, and what he taught, 616; His two series of development, 617; His theory of the absolute, 618; Last stage of his speculations, 619; How his philosophy was regarded, 620; Hegel's Idealism, 621; His ideas of morality and religion, 623; Bringing these to their last development, 625; Attacked by Schoppenhauer and others, 626; Why it is useless to criticize these systems, 627.

DE LA SALLE: HIS LIFE AND WORK. By M. O'R., ... 628

Social position of the De la Salle family, 628; Birth and education of the founder of the Brothers of the Christian Schools, 629; He loses his parents, 630; Devotedness to his favorite studies, 630; Determined to devote himself to the welfare of his neighbors, 631; He founds his Order, 632; In spite of difficulties he becomes the champion of popular education, 633; What he has done for the diffusion of knowledge, 634; Establishing a training school for teachers, 635; His work appreciated by the Government, 636; De la Salle eminent both for piety and learning, 637; His struggle with the Jansenists, 638; Progress of his work down to the Revolution, 639; Table showing the success of the Brothers of the Christian Schools as teachers, 640; Testimony of Guizot and Thiers, 641; Table of qualifying examinations for the University, 642; The ordeal through which the Brothers are now passing in France, 643.

RECENT PROGRESS IN STELLAR PHYSICS. By Rev. J. M. Degni, S. J., . 645

Astronomy leading the onward march of progress, 645; Use of the Spectroscope in this science, 647; Researches of Father Secchi and Prof. Lockyer, 648; Spectra of the various stellar types, 649; How the Spectroscope conveys a knowledge of the heavens, 650; What we have learned of the sun through it, 651; Progress of stellar chemistry, 653; Janssen and Lockyer observing the sun's prominences in full sunshine, 654; Further observations by their method, 655; Displacement of lines in the spectrum of the solar spots, 656; Doppler's principle, 657; Deductions regarding the nucleus of the sun, 658; Solution of questions regarding the stellar spectra, 659; Secchi's explanation of the stellar types, 660; Temperature of the stars, 661; Angular displacement of many fixed stars, 661; Velocity of the stars and other questions solved, 662; Spectroscopic observations on the variable stars, 663; Importance of the work accomplished by the Spectroscope, 663.

THE MORMONS. By Gen. John Gibbon, U. S. A., ... 664

First acquaintance with Mormonism, 664; Leaving Utah to take part in the Civil War, 665; An instance illustrating the moral tone of the Mormon community, 666; Bargaining with a Mormon horse thief, 668; Receiving news of the battle of Bull Run, 669; Resuming rambles in the Rocky Mountains, and renewing the acquaintance of Mormonism, 670; Establishing Camp Douglass, 671; Character of Salt Lake and the streams that flow into it, 672; A Mormon as a citizen of the United States, 673; Brigham Young's influence, 674; An acquaintance in Cottonwood Cañon, 675; Ignorance characteristic of the Mormons, 676; The Mountain Meadow Massacre, 677; Workings of Government in Utah, 678; Death of Brigham Young, 679.

THE INTERNAL CONDITION OF RUSSIA. By A. de G., ... 680

Interest awakened by the Nihilist movement, 680; Influence of Russia on Europe, 681; Last Russo-Turkish war, 681; Origin of the present discontent in Russia, 682; The army under the surveillance of the police, 683; Number and social composition of the Revolutionists, 684; Grim reality of the grievances of Russian society, 685; Present condition of Russia examined, 686; The Russo-Greek Church, 687; What Peter the Great and Catharine II. did, 688; Russian ideas on women and children, 689; How despotism has remained in Russia, 690; The Russians of to-day not so badly instructed, 691; A Nihilist Constitution, 692; Present condition of Russia explained, 692; History of Russia a warning to so-called Christian peoples, 693.

CARDINAL POLE. By Rev. M. J. McLoughlin, ... 694

Cardinal Pole's place in history, 694; His birth and family, 695; He is sent to Padua, 696; His first relations with Henry VIII, 697; Selected by Henry for the See of York, 699; He refuses, and the King's anger in consequence, 700; Patronized by Vittoria Colonna, 701; Declaration of the Royal supremacy, 702; Pole's absence from England no assurance against persecution, 703; A book which subjects him to the cruelest persecution by Henry, 704; His personal safety endangered, 705; Pole's influence on the Catholic world of that day, 706; His career as a Legate, 707; Council of Trent called, 709; What he did at the accession of Edward VI. 711; Marriage of Mary Tudor to Philip of Spain, 712; How the union was accepted in England, 713; Cardinal Pole and Queen Mary, 714; How he spent the last years of his life, 715; His character as an administrator, 716; Misunderstood by the good, 717; He was morally rather than mentally a great man, 718.

THE RECENT ENCYCLICAL LETTER OF POPE LEO XIII. By Very Rev. James A. Corcoran, D.D., ... 719

On the necessity of reinstating the Christian philosophy of St. Thomas in Catholic schools, 719; Latin text of the Encyclical, 733; English translation, 745.

BOOK NOTICES.

Allen & Greenough's Latin Grammar.....388, 772
Anglo-American Bible Revision..... 580

Bible History for the Use of Schools..... 772
Bismarck in the Franco-German War..... 385
Boardman's Epiphanies of the Risen Lord..... 580
Brennan's Life of Christ..... 770

Cape's The Age of the Antonines..... 388
Counterpoints in Canon Law. By Rev. S. B. Smith, D.D..... 370
Creation, The Six Days of the..... 382
Crown of Thorns, The Mystery of the..... 388
Cultivation of the Senses..... 579

Dawn of History (Keary)..... 384
De Augustinis's De Re Sacramentaria.....185, 770
De Concilio's Elements of Intellectual Philosophy..... 177
Development of English Literature (Brother Azarias)..... 759

Education as a Science..... 383
English Reformation, The (Geikie)..... 388
Essays from the North American Review..... 580
Ewer's Gentle Remonstrance..... 579

Fairy-Land of Science, The..... 388
Faith and Rationalism (Fisher)..... 514
French Revolutionary Epoch, The..... 182

Grade und Freiheit..... 560
Grammar of English Grammars..... 386
Green's History of the English People..... 569

Haeckel's Evolution of Man 567
Health Primers..... 388
Health and how to Preserve it..... 387
Henriette d'Osseville, McLeod's Life of..... 190
Herbert Spencer's Data of Ethics..... 772
Human Species, The (De Quatrefages)..... 765

Ihne's Early Rome..... 388
Inner Life of Père Lacordaire..... 562
Introductio in Scripturam Sacram (Ubaldi) 388, 762

Jesuits, The (Féval)..... 189
Jesuits, The, their Foundation and History 577
Jesu Cristo se non e vero Dio vero Uomo..... 580

La Nouvelle Atala.....580, 767
Last Seven Words..... 191
Legouvé's Art of Reading..... 578
Leighton's Latin Lessons.....388, 772
Lessons in Practical Science..... 578
Louisa Kirkbride (Thébaud)..... 573
Luyteiaar's Fidei et Morum Fundamenta, 388, 771

Mazzella De Virtutibus Infusis..... 768
Mallock's Is Life Worth Living?..... 769
Memorie Documentale per la Storia della Revoluzione Italiana..... 579
Modern Chromatics..... 576
Month of Mary..... 388
Motives of Life..... 387
Mystery of the Wizard Chip..... 580

Natural Resources of the United States..... 388
New Testament, translation from the Syriac 387

O'Brien's History of the Mass..... 571
Ocean Wonders..... 388
O'Connell's Catholicity in the Carolinas and Georgia..... 515
Onderdonk's History of Maryland..... 191
O'Reilly's Moondyne..... 572

Protestant and Catholic Civilization Compared (De Haulleville)..... 188

Raphaëla..... 192
Religion, Lectures on the Origin and Growth of..... 388
Reply of Rt. Rev. Bishop Becker..... 187
Richardson's Long Life and how to Reach it 580

Short Catechism for Young Men and Young Women Contemplating Marriage..... 192
Solemn Blessing and Opening of the New Cathedral of New York..... 580
Spirit of St. Francis of Sales..... 577
States of the Christian Life and Vocation..... 388
St. Louis University, Historical Sketch of..... 771

Taylor's Destruction and Reconstruction..... 388
The Multitudinous Seas..... 388